

CommPartners Launches Event Producer Live Learning Platform

(Columbia, MD – June 26, 2015) CommPartners, a leader in online learning and events, is pleased to announce the launch of Event Producer, our second education platform from the Elevate Learning Suite. Event Producer was designed specifically to build community and engagement through live and on-demand webinar programs. The platform integrates with a client's database, content management system, branding and merchant services to provide a seamless experience for both the host organization and its participants. Processing of continuing education credits through assessment, survey and certificate components are included. Forum discussions foster interaction before and after an event. Subscription packages, learning paths and recommended content create relevancy for each member of a community.

Rich Finstein, CEO of CommPartners, shared, "We realized through our years of producing online events that clients were looking for a more effective platform for webinars and other live programs. Event Producer delivers a true social learning environment, integrating expert content with peer ideas and experiences. We believe it's the perfect way to engage a new generation of learners."

For more information, please visit www.commpartners.com or email info@commpartners.com

About CommPartners

CommPartners provides online education and event services to the association community. The company's mission is focused on providing a well-planned and intelligent approach to sharing of knowledge, with a core focus on creating positive user experiences. Over 1,300 organizations have selected CommPartners to manage their eLearning programs. The CommPartners team is diverse, but together they share a common passion: to be strategic thinkers, dedicated to advancing a client's mission through exceptional education programs.

###